

Standards Set for Sylvania Township Cemetery

Sylvania Township trustees have adopted a set of regulations and standards for the township cemetery. Rules, regulations and a fee schedule have been established for the cemetery after their recent adoption by Sylvania Township trustees.

Rob Nash, road superintendent for the township, said fees had been established by board action in the past, but for some questions such as what items or how many can be left at a grave site, have never been answered in a formal way.

Mr. Nash, who is also cemetery sexton, said having established rules should be helpful to the public as well as road department employees who will now have a document to refer to when answering questions from the public. He said the written rules do not contain anything which is not already in practice at the cemetery, but that it gives everyone an established resource to refer to.
